THE MOTHER OF PARLIAMENTS.

IS HER PRESTIGE DECLINING?

OTHER TIMES, OTHER MANNERS IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

[BY COL. JOHN BUCHAN, M.P. IN "THE SUNDAY TIMES."]

Is the prestige of Parliament declining? I do not mean the prestige of Constitutional Government, which in various European countries is admittedly at a low ebb. Happily in Britain we have shown no hankering after the dictator. I mean the prestige of the debating side of our constitutional machinery—and principally of the House of Commons.

It has always been the British fashion to speak lightly of authorities, even when in our heart we respected them, and the House of Commons has often been affectionately described as a "talking shop" and a "monkey house." But we have never really meant it. Politician is not with us as yet a word of disrepute, as it is in America. A member of Parliament has still an aura of respectability about him which is rare on the Continent. Once, going down from the French front at Verdun, with an infantry battalion which had been relieved, we passed a charabanc full of civilians. I shall never forget the scorn with which the troops hissed out the word "Deputies!"

But is the prestige of the House of Commons what it once was? It has played so great a part in our history that any decline in its popular repute would be a phenomenon worthy of serious consideration. It is fair to say, I think, that the ordinary man is less interested in what goes on there than in earlier days. Before the war the newspapers gave far more space to Parliamentary debates. The popular Press to-day, except on a great occasion, scarcely notices them. Political reputations in the country are far less easily made by speeches in the House of Commons. Is this undoubted fact a proof of decline?

Improvement in Manners.

There is a good deal to be put to the credit side of Parliament to-day. On the whole it is a highly decorous body, with excellent manners. We no longer find orange peel about, or attend in our cups, or invite the Speaker to sing a song, as happened a century ago. The Irish Party before the war no doubt cultivated debate, but they also turned it occasionally into a dog fight. The Labour members to-day have a very stiff sense of behaviour, and are quick to resent breaches of etiquette.

I think, too, that the personnel is more interesting than it used to be. The Parliaments of Pitt and Fox must have been dull affairs—boreds of undistinguished country squires and placemen relieved by a few great figures. Nowadays the House of Commons represents every class and interest and temperament. Personally, I take pleasure in a debate conducted in a variety of local dialects, instead of in the clipped, conventional speech of the Universities. Members to-day can bring to a discussion a wealth of idiomatic experience which was unknown in the old House of Commons.

It is sometimes said that, owing to the power of the Government machine, a debate can no longer influence votes. The charge seems to me to be doubtful. Parties are more fluid to-day than when they were brigaded rigorously into Whig and Tory, Liberal and Conservative—a brigading which had a social as well as an intellectual significance. There are fringes in all our parties which are liable to vote unexpectedly. And when the subject is outside party creeds, as in the debates on the Revised Prayer Book, you can see opinion being made before your eyes. The same thing is true of any matter of urgent national importance. The recent discussions on the Unemployment problem were a case in point. Speeches by the younger members on both sides of the House had an obvious educative influence on their opponents.

Speeches Shorter and Tenser.

Has the level of speaking fallen? The laudator temporis acti would say that it has. But then he would say that about anything. Undoubtedly the grand manner has gone out of use. We rarely get a specimen of the old-fashioned full-bodied eloquence, an elaborate oration of the class type. But this is simply a change of fashion, just as the style of a leader to-day is not of the style of one written under Delane. Eloquence of that kind is not required. Speeches are shorter and more businesslike. We still have our Parliamentary bores, and we still have the honest souls who deliver carefully prepared and not very relevant discourses for the benefit of their constituents and their local paper. Let not ambition mock their homely toil! But I am prepared to maintain that speeches on the whole are more interesting to-day than in the past, as they are certainly more practical.

Great Personalities.

But it may be said that we have no longer the great personalities. That is a point on which it is hard for a contemporary to judge. Unquestionably we have no one who can call down the thunders of Sinai as Mr. Gladstone could; no one with Disraeli's deadly acid of satire; no one who, like Mr. Asquith, can speak without preparation, perfect, eighteenth-century prose; no one with Lord Balfour's uncanny dialectical subtlety. But I sometimes wonder how effective these qualities would be in the House of Commons to-day. Demand creates supply, and each age produces the talents which are most needed. The dry lucidity of the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Baldwin's power of lighting up a topic with a simple and spacious imagination, Mr. Lloyd George's easy conversational manner may well be the kind of gift best suited to our modern tasks.

Yet the fact remains that the House of Commons does not interest the public as it once did. How many people, apart from Members, read through the Parliamentary debates, or even look at Hansard? At a London dinner table, when I was a young man, political talk was largely about what happened, or was about to happen, in Parliament. Now we talk more politics than ever, but less about the House of Commons.

Complexity of Parliament's Task.

For this I think we can find several reasons. The first is that the work of Government has become complex and congested. The business to be got through is so vast that it has to be hustled, and its exact meaning is not very clear to the ordinary man. He does not understand half the points. Topics like Irish Home Rule and Disestablishment could be argued on the basis of a few principles and prejudices. But to-day most of our questions involve a large background of intricate facts, and cannot be put in the form of a few easy slogans. Moreover, the public is conscious of the great impersonal machine of the Civil Service behind it all, a machine to which unfortunately are relegated many of the duties which used to be performed by Parliament itself. It suspects, with some truth, that what really matters is the discussion between the Government and the bureaucracy behind the scenes, and not what the House of Commons says.

Again, the sporting interest has gone out of the business. In simpler days the two great parties had very much the same fundamental creed, and they differed chiefly in pace and emphasis. A man was often Whig or Tory for non-political reasons, for very much the same reason as he took a particular side at cricket or football. There was a large element of the game in politics. And this applied specially to Parliament, which was, so to speak, the final test match. Party loyalty was a sturdy thing. You whooped your own side to victory because it was your own side, not because of the policy which it advocated. There is much less of this feeling to-day. The creeds of all parties are in solution, and their boundaries are vague. The element of the gladiatorial contest has largely gone out of Parliamentary debate, and with it the sporting interest in a fight between two clearly defined sides, which the ordinary man loves.

THE MOTHER OF PARLIAMENTS.

Increased Political Interest.

There is a third and more vital reason. If interest in Parliament has declined political interest has increased. Our political problems to-day are very intricate and practical. They touch us in every aspect of our daily business and our daily life. No one can afford to be apathetic about them.

The consequence is that from sheer necessity political knowledge has been more widely diffused. No doubt there is still much room for improvement on this score, but I think that it cannot be denied that the ordinary man knows far more about politics than he did twenty years ago, simply because so many of the problems have come within the orbit of his actual experience. He lives in the thick of a certain kind of political discussion, and on matters about which he has special knowledge he may feel that he is far more of an expert than his member. Parliament is no more the chief clearing-house of political ideas, and no longer the chief source. Political opinion is very largely being made from below and not from above. Political power can be acquired by people who never go near Westminster. The House of Commons has many rivals in the business of debate.

Still the Final Tribunal.

Yet, when all is said, Parliament remains the final tribunal. Problems may be discussed elsewhere with equal intelligence and perhaps greater knowledge, but it is Parliament that decides them. A debate may be dull and ill-informed, but at the end of it members troop into the two lobbies, and the division makes the law of the land. The ordinary man does not forget this truth. He has lost the old sporting interest in the gladiatorial side of it, but, as a matter of strict business, he appreciates its ultimate power.

He would appreciate it more, I think, if it were more businesslike. Nothing would restore Parliament's prestige, if it should be declining, so much as some reform in its methods, which are disputable, and some relief of its congestion, which is, unfortunately, beyond dispute. Subject to that, I do not believe that our Parliament has seriously lost its historic glamour. It is changing, as all things must change, and in the process there are both losses and gains. Happily, it still attracts some of the best talent of youth. To sit in it is still a widespread ambition, which no intellectual cynicism can seriously shake. And in one respect it is more representative and interesting than at any earlier stage in its history, for to-day, as never before, it is a true microcosm of the nation.

NINTH SYMPHONY STORM.

GERMAN RETALIATION IN PRAGUE.

The storm which has arisen over the recent production of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony in Prague has led to the suggestion that its famous "Lied and die Freude" should in Prague be described in future as the "Hymn to Babel."

As a result of the Czech nationalist campaign against the singing in the German language, Madame Krása, of the solo quartet, a Czech, refused to sing in German and sang in Czech. Fraulein Jarmila Novotny, a member of the Berlin State Opera, of Czech birth, bowed to the storm and abandoned German for Czech. Director Zemlinsky, another Czech member of the Berlin State Opera, then ordered the whole quartet to sing Czech. The Yugoslav tenor Rivauch rebelled, and after singing first in French, reverted to German for the final performance.

This was only the beginning of Babel in Prague. The Prague German Philharmonic Choir now also took up a Nationalist attitude and declined to sing in Czech. Eventually a compromise was reached whereby the female voices should sing Czech, the male German. This the Germans agreed to in view of the predominance of the male voices in the choir parts of the Ninth Symphony. In the event they secured that only the male (German) words should be audible.

Under these extraordinary circumstances was produced that hymn of universal brotherhood, the "Lied and die Freude," with its great call to world reconciliation, "Seid umschlungen, Millionen!" which the Pan-European League wants to adopt as its official anthem! The Berlin Nationalist Press is now reported as replying vigorously to the assaults of the Czech Nationalist Press. A cry has arisen for the suspension of the two members of the Berlin State Opera, Director Zemlinsky and Fraulein Novotny, for their alleged yielding to the Czech chauvinists, and assistance in producing the "Babel Symphony." An official inquiry into their conduct has been ordered in Berlin.

ELECTRIC CABLE MURDERS.

WIRE OF DEATH HUNG ACROSS A ROAD.

THREE MEN KILLED.

A triple murder unprecedented in the history of crime and the drama of an alleged modern Cain form the subject of a sensational trial which began in the little town of Korneuburg, near Vienna, last month.

A young farmer, Franz Neumayer, is charged with the murder not only of his brother, but also of two innocent strangers, and dangerously wounding a third stranger by means of a deadly electric trap.

Cries of Agony.

In the early morning of August 3 last year the police of Korneuburg were awakened from sleep by the sound of cries of agony, and rushed out to see a badly burned man, crawling along, shouting for help. He was Leopold Wolff, a farm hand.

"Dead men are lying out there," he cried, pointing through the darkness in the direction from which he had come.

"I was attacked. Some one hit me in the chest as I was cycling along the road. I was thrown yards away."

Lighting their torches, the police advanced cautiously, and saw a terrible sight. Lying in the road were three dead men with bicycles beside them, twisted and burned.

Stretched across the roadway at a height of six feet from the ground was a harmless-looking wire made fast to trees, while a second wire connected one end of it to the overhead electric power cables running parallel with the road twenty yards away.

Deadly Current.

It was obviously that the arrangement had been deliberately made to charge the obstacle-wire with the deadly electric current of 30,000 volts from the power cable, and that the "fendish" device was practically certain to kill any one who touched it.

The skill with which the work had been done amazed the police. The motive of robbery was out of the question, as none of the victims' bodies had been touched, and they were all poor men, so it was concluded that revenge must have been the motive of the crime.

After elaborate inquiries into the lives of the three victims, suspicion fell on the younger brother of one of them, Franz Neumayer, who, it was discovered, cherished a deadly hatred of his brother Matthias, because the latter objected to his proposed marriage to a dairymaid.

Expert Electrician.

The police also discovered that on the death of Matthias an inheritance was passed to Franz, and that Franz was an expert electrician, and knew that his brother was certain to pass the fatal spot after saying good-night to the woman he loved. Franz at first denied everything, and then made a confession, which he has since retracted.

The court presented a queer scene. The burned clothes of the murdered men lay on one bench and the fatal wires on another. In an adjoining room were the three bicycles on which the victims had ridden to death.

The prisoner, who is a strong and very good-looking young man, with brown hair and light blue eyes, declared that on the fatal day, a Sunday, he attended church in the morning and spent the critical hours of the evening at an inn. He admitted his interest in electrical subjects.

His fiancée and the girl who was engaged to his dead brother were present in court.

TEN RULES FOR A HAPPY LIFE.

FAITH IN HUMAN NATURE.

Professor Henry Hepper, a teacher of applied psychology at Syracuse University, New York, offers a set of ten rules for the guidance of those who wish to keep normal, mentally balanced and happy in modern life. The list may be summarised as follows:—

Be good. The straight and narrow path is the one that leads to sanity. Admit your defects. You are not supposed to be perfect. Associate with happy people. Belong to some kind of club. Have a religious faith.

See life in its right perspective. Realise that in the scheme of things worries which at the time seem overbearing are really trivial. Love some one. Believe in human beings. Do not let misplaced confidence destroy your faith in human nature. Have a hobby and a plan in life. Use one to balance the other. If your regular work is mental, choose a hobby which requires physical exertion. Change your environment. Take a holiday when possible. If this is impossible, at least change the arrangement of the furniture in your home.

"WIFE OF MOODS."

STRANGE COURTING OF AN ACTRESS.

ASKED TO ELOPE.

A husband and wife, who were stated to be still living together but always quarrelling and becoming reconciled, were opposing parties in an action in the Chancery Division last month.

The wife was Mrs. Florence Pierce, of Belton Lodge, Longbridge-road, Barking. She was said to have been well known on the stage under the name of Flora Cromer.

She asked for a declaration that her husband, Dr. George Oliver Pierce, of the same address, held Belton Lodge, Barking, and "The Haven," Eel Pie Island, Twickenham, together with furniture and silver, upon trust for her by virtue of a contract contained in letters written by her husband to her in December, 1926, before their marriage.

Mr. C. Harman, for the wife, said the couple met at Hastings in 1900, where Dr. Pierce was in medical practice. Mrs. Pierce was then only 17.

Gave Up Practice.

The doctor had an invalid wife, but, said Mr. Harman, he gave up his practice as far as he could and followed the girl all over the country.

In 1903 Mrs. Pierce went to Australia, and returned in 1904.

The doctor, Mr. Harman continued, then urged her to run away from him, saying: "I will leave my wife and practice." Mrs. Pierce, however, declined, and went off on another tour.

In 1908 Mrs. Pierce married a Mr. Charles Reed.

Mr. Reed fell ill, and when he was dying, Mrs. Pierce, being in straits, rang up the doctor and asked him if he could help her. The doctor again asked her to go away with him, but she declined.

Cabled Proposal.

Mr. Reed died in 1922 while his wife was in Australia. The doctor cabled the news, and in the same cable asked her to marry him, said counsel. The plaintiff thought that marriage would not be a success, as she was a person of moods and so was the doctor.

Ultimately she consented on the faith of promises contained in certain letters, said her counsel, and finally they were married in 1923.

Mr. Justice Clouston: Has there been a separation or divorce? Mr. Harman: No, they are living and quarrelling together. There have been repeated quarrels and reconciliations. In February, they were still living on the most affectionate terms.

Mr. Justice Clouston: It seems very odd that husband and wife, living together and settling minor household matters, cannot settle a major one.

Eventually, at the judge's suggestion, counsel on either side went into the judge's private room, and a settlement was later announced under which (among other things) the wife will receive £500 a year, later increased to £600.

SURPRISE IN BALFOUR WILL.

ESTATE FOR NEPHEW NOT NEW EARL.

Lord Balfour has left the Whittinghame estate to his nephew, Viscount Traprain, instead of to his brother Gerald, the new earl. This fact is revealed in the late earl's will, which was registered at Edinburgh, last month.

Family Consent.

The entire residue of the late earl's means and estate, also go to Viscount Traprain.

This, says the will, has been done with the consent of the family in order to save as much Estate Duty as possible.

The trustees under the will—Lord Salisbury, Viscount Cecil, Major Balfour Younger of Balbirnie and the Hon. E. C. Lascelles—are directed to pay all existing pensions to old servants and others.

State Secrets Trust.

Lord Balfour directs his trustees to hand over to his brother, Gerald William Balfour, his sister, Miss Alice Blanche Balfour, and to the life renter in possession for the time of his estate of Whittinghame.

All his private papers, diaries and correspondence, so that they, along with any others they may choose to act with them, may examine and divide them into two categories, political and private, and preserve or destroy such portions as they may deem expedient, with power to publish all or any part of such papers, diaries or correspondence, or to lend them for publication.

The value of the estate is not disclosed. The will is dated Whittinghame, January, 1923, and is witnessed by Sir Robert Horne, M.P., and by the Rev. Marshall D. Lang, minister of Whittinghame.

The codicil altering the immediate succession is dated December, 30, 1927, and witnessed by Mr. A. S. Blair and Frank Edward Coleman, Earl Balfour's butler.

BAN ON INDIAN DEGREES.

PROTEST BY SIR T. CAREY EVANS.

ADDING TO RACE ANTAGONISM.

A spirited protest against the action of the British General Medical Council in withdrawing recognition of the degrees of the various Indian universities for the purpose of registration was recently made by Sir Thomas Carey Evans, son-in-law of Mr. Lloyd George, and formerly Surgeon to Lord Reading when he was Viceroy of India.

Sir Thomas, who is staying with Mr. Lloyd George served for twenty-one years in the Indian Medical Service. "There is tremendous difficulty," he said, "in applying in a huge country like India the high medical standards insisted upon in England."

India's Peculiar Needs.

The problem is being looked at from the wrong angle, India, with her medley of races and social conditions, has to legislate for her own peculiar needs. She has the ability to do so.

"People in this country who look at the question purely from the point of view of standards forget, for instance, that Indian women, because of the purdah system, do not want men doctors. Hence the Indian might reasonably ask why he should attain to Western standards of midwifery."

Sir Thomas went on to say that the decision of the General Medical Council comes at a particularly unfortunate moment. Delicate negotiations were already proceeding between the Government of India and the Provincial Governments, and the universities and medical bodies, with the object of establishing a statutory All-India Medical Council.

This, it was believed, would do much to adjust differences between East and West in the matter of recognisable medical standards in India.

The Wider Issue.

Sir Thomas agreed that the General Medical Council has exercised considerable forbearance during the decade over which the controversy has raged, but he maintained that it was not statesmanlike to act so summarily when there was evidence that India might meet the situation.

"India," Sir Thomas said, "is conscious of her problems, and her young men need all the encouragement that we can give them. The issue is not merely one of continuing to place a few Indian names on the British Register as eligible to practise in this country."

After all, the average Indian wants to work in his own country, where he understands the life and conditions of the people. By placing him as a disadvantage in so doing, the decision of the General Medical Council has added fuel to the smouldering fire of race conflict and antagonism which is so liable to break out in India when nationalism is so much in evidence."

Need for Co-operation.

Finally, Sir Thomas questioned the wisdom of discouraging young Indians from completing their medical education in Great Britain. He also regretted the "possibility of alienating the good will and loyal co-operation of a very large number of Indian medical men, many of them trained here."

India, he pointed out, offers the widest field for co-operation; the work, of necessity, must fall more and more on Indians, who have already done much to improve the standard of hygiene and health among the people.

"British standards," he concluded, "are the highest in the world, and in this matter, as in so many others where India is concerned, we are starting from the wrong end."

CHURCHES' PROGRESS IN AMERICA.

ANNUAL CENSUS SHOWS DECREASE.

[UNITED PRESS.]

New York, April 29.—The annual census of the Christian Herald, the foremost religious publication in the United States, showed that all churches in the United States gained 200,000 members.

This is a startling decrease as compared with previous years.

For the first time since the Civil War, the Methodist Episcopal Church showed a loss of 25,000 members, while the Methodists as a whole lost 2,500 members.

The Baptists gained 53,000 members as against a gain of 300,000 members for 1929.

The Catholics gained 77,000, as against 360,000 for the previous year.

The total membership of all churches in the United States was found to stand at 50,000,000 persons as compared with 48,703,470 persons for the previous period under survey. This was for 29 church denominations. The survey showed that the number of churches had decreased slightly.

DAYLIGHT SAVING IN AMERICA.

COWS OBJECT TO EARLY MILKING.

DIFFICULTY OVER BEANS.

[UNITED PRESS.]

New York, April 27.—Approximately 25,000,000 people in the United States woke up this morning just one hour earlier than they have been accustomed, due to the change from Standard Time to Daylight Saving.

Daylight Saving is ushered in each year on the last Sunday of April at 9 a.m., and lasts until 2 a.m. of the last Sunday in September. It is accomplished by turning clocks in the observing areas back one hour.

The custom is not observed all over the United States, but only in certain parts where people have been favourable to the extra hour of daylight. New York and vicinity, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Chicago and suburbs are some of the places observing it.

Rural communities this year again raised objection to the change, farmers claiming that the milking of their cows one hour earlier was harmful. They also contended that vegetables such as beans could not be cultivated properly while dew was still on the vines.

Railroads will continue to run on Standard Time but they have been forced to prepare new time tables showing the differences in time.

In opposition to the claims of the agriculturalists, proponents of the system say that workers in buildings get more fresh air, sunshine and exercise after the day's work is completed, due to the extra hour of daylight in the evenings.

Employers get more efficient work because employees are in better physical condition, it is declared.

Because of time for relaxation in healthful activities, city workers are better satisfied and the labour turnover, industry's most expensive item, is reduced.

AMERICAN LAWYERS AND CHINESE LAW.

SUGGESTION OF APPLICATION TO THE PORTS.

[UNITED PRESS.]

Washington, April 27.—Leading speakers at the American Society of International Law to-day advocated that the foreign ports in China should voluntarily apply modernized Chinese law, thus paving the way toward abolition of extraterritoriality.

Judge Charles S. Lobingier, formerly of the U. S. Court for China, and Mr. William Denis, legal adviser to the Chinese Government at Peking 1917-19, urged that foreigners should adopt Chinese law in cases where Chinese were concerned as a solution of the extraterritoriality dispute, because the variety of foreign laws was declared to be confusing and complicating even to foreign residents of China.

Judge John Wu, formerly president of the Provisional Court in Shanghai, urged complete abolition of extraterritoriality on the grounds that China now had codes which were modern and applicable to all civil and criminal cases.

Mr. Dennis said that foreigners would not suffer the loss of any rights and that no American would be placed by Chinese law in jeopardy greater than under American law, while the achievement of uniformity would be an excellent provision for everyone concerned.

Such a move, in Mr. Dennis' opinion, would relieve present tension to a marked extent.

He expressed the view, however, that even this would not completely satisfy the Chinese, and he declared himself possessed of the "utmost faith" in Chinese promises for equitable administration of justice after foreign extraterritorial privilege has been surrendered.

MEI LAN FANG ILL WITH INFLUENZA.

DETERMINATION TO KEEP ENGAGEMENTS.

[UNITED PRESS.]

San Francisco, April 27.—Mei Lan Fang, the famous Chinese actor who is completing a tour of the United States, is suffering from influenza.

He will continue his performances, however, it was announced, and he insists upon completing all his engagements.

Such enormous crowds are being drawn to Mei's performances in San Francisco that the theatre has found necessary to make arrangements whereby the performances will be removed from the Liberty Theatre, in Chinatown, to the Capitol Theatre in the heart of the San Francisco theatre district.

HOME FOOTBALL RESULTS.

BURNLEY AND EVERTON DROP OUT OF THE FIRST DIVISION.

PROMOTION FOR BLACKPOOL AND CHELSEA.

LEAGUE SEASON COMPLETED.

Home football closed its season on Saturday, when promotion and relegation matters were finally decided. Sheffield Wednesday won the League Championship again and improved on their last season's final position, when they gained 92 points with 24 goals in their favour. This season they scored 80 points and they had 48 goals more than were scored against them. A total of 60 points was the highest ever recorded in the First Division of the English League. West Bromwich Albion gained this number of points in the 1919-20 season, and Liverpool three years later.

In the relegation, struggle between five teams at the bottom of the First Division, all won their matches, leaving Burnley and Everton to drop out. Blackpool and Chelsea move up to the First Division. The latter lost on Saturday, but they qualified for promotion owing to Oldham's defeat. Bristol City and Hull finished at the bottom of the Second Division, Plymouth and Port Vale taking their place. Merthyr and Barrow are the wooden-spoonists of the Third Division.

Two matches still remain to be completed in the Scottish League. Results, as cabled by Reuters, and final League tables follow:

GENE TUNNEY NOT TO BOX AGAIN.

DENIES HE WILL MEET SCHMELING.

[UNITED PRESS.]

New York, April 24.—Gene Tunney, the world's heavyweight champion, today issued a denial of published reports that he is training secretly in preparation for a return to the ring in the event of Max Schmeling, who has been hailed as the "German Dempsey," winning the heavyweight elimination tournament.

Schmeling Sails for U.S.

Berlin, April 25.—Max Schmeling left here yesterday for America, where he will meet the American heavyweight, Jack Sharkey, in June, in a 15-round battle to decide the world's heavyweight championship. The German favourite was seen off only by his mother and a few friends.

Hartford, Conn., April 25.—Bat Battalino, holder of the world's featherweight championship, won by a decision over Bushy Graham in 10 rounds here to-night. Both men entered the ring somewhat over the weight limit and the title was not involved.

PRIEST'S COFFIN TO BE OPENED.

BODY THAT SHOWED NO SIGNS OF DEATH.

150-YEARS-OLD MYSTERY.

An experiment unique in the history of exhumation will shortly be made in the crypt of the famous Viennese church, Am Hof, in connection with the jubilee celebrations in honour of the great Austrian Empress Maria Theresa. The coffin containing the remains of her favourite priest and confessor, Anton Knabes, who astounded the doctors of the Court by refusing to appear dead after death had taken place, is to be opened after a lapse of 150 years to discover if decomposition has yet taken place.

Empress' Secretary. The story of this amazing man, whose body remained for days and weeks after his death in an open bier for the populace to admire, is one of the mysteries of time.

Knabes was born in July 1687, and in 1703 entered the Jesuit Order as a novice. He was a missionary for a short time, and preached at Am Hof, where he attracted the attention of the Empress, who made him her secretary. He was adored by the people, and on his sixty-third birthday was presented with new vestments of silver fringed with thirteen golden tassels. It was his habit to rise each day at 3 a.m., but one morning his head found him sitting up in bed dead.

After three days, according to a contemporary report in the State Library, the colour of his face was still fresh and rosy-looking; he was smiling, and his limbs were quite flexible.

Buried Under Altar. Doctors heated the room and endeavoured to bring the corpse back to life. Arteries were cut, and blood spurted out. A week passed, and there was still no change in his appearance.

The case was reported far and wide, and thousands came to see the body. Weeks later Knabes was buried under the high altar next to the coffin containing the Indian missionary, Boranga.

A month passed, and again a commission of doctors came to examine the body. There was no sign of decomposition whatever. On May 9, two months after the first burial, the coffin was finally sealed up inside the tomb, where it has remained until this day.

PRINCIPLE AND PRACTICE.

SENATORS WHO VOTE "DRY" BUT DRINK "WET."

[UNITED PRESS.]

Washington, April 25.—Confidential files of the Association Against Prohibition contain a list of "dry" voting but wet drinking members of Congress, according to Mr. Henry Curran of the Association in a committee hearing.

Members of the Senate lobby committee decided, however, that this was one bit of information with which they could dispense.

The ground on which this evidence was excluded by the committee was that it was "not connected with the subject of lobbying," although there was a strong undercurrent of curiosity manifest. Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas attempted to place the list on the official record, but he was later persuaded to desist. It was understood that the persuasion took the form of suggesting that the question of Congressional courtesy toward his fellow members was involved.

MARCONI ATTACKS THE G.P.O.

THE RUGBY STATION.

"OBSOLETE BEFORE IT WAS FINISHED."

Marquis Marconi, who thrilled the world by switching on the lights in Sydney Town Hall by pressing a key at Genoa, 10,000 miles away, recently replied to the Postmaster-General's statement in the House of Commons on why the Government refused to co-operate with the Imperial Communications Company in an Empire service of beam wireless telephony.

It would have been simple for Marquis Marconi to have spoken through the wireless set on his yacht Elettra with which he turned on the lights in Australia. He is forbidden, however, to do so by the British Post Office regulations. Marquis Marconi overcame the difficulty by leaving his yacht in the port of Genoa and talking from the shore.

Post Office Attitude. Marconi invented the beam system and the Post Office granted a lease to the Imperial Communications Company for the use of it for telegraphic purposes. It was the decision of the Post Office to work the telephone service itself that led to last night's debate. Mr. Lees-Smith, the Postmaster-General, contended that by concentrating at Rugby and Baldoon on stations of the Post Office type, with their smaller and cheaper aerials, he could give the public as good a service as that offered by the Communications Company, at a lower annual cost.

"I intend to reply to the Post Office attitude within the next two or three days," he said. "In my opinion the Post Office is just as wrong as it was when more than half a million pounds of public money was spent on the station at Rugby. That station was obsolete before it was finished, because of the coming of the beam system."

"If the Government desire a good commercial service for the largest possible number of hours, at the lowest possible charge to the public, then there is no substitute for the powerful directive aerials of the type already in existence at our beam stations."

A Prophecy. "If the experts advising the Government have given any different advice from this, I prophesy that in a few years their reputation will rank with that of the other Post Office experts who, when I had invented the beam system in 1923, declared that wireless had reached saturation point, that there would be no more developments, but only improvements in detail, and that anything in the way of a reliable telegraph service by means of the beam was not to be expected because of the notorious fickleness of short waves."

"If the Post Office are so satisfied that they have a better system than that of the beam, why do they refuse to abide by the result of a practical test of both systems working under identical conditions?"

was later persuaded to desist. It was understood that the persuasion took the form of suggesting that the question of Congressional courtesy toward his fellow members was involved.

Carver Field, a journalist who has at various times represented the United Press, Baltimore Sun and most recently the New York Herald-Tribune, prepared the list.

"GIRL" WHO IS A MAN.

SEX REVERSED FOR WEDDING.

TOWN AMAZED.

Local preacher. Institution nurse. Domestic servant. Chapel soloist. These are some of the activities of a handsome "woman" of 29 who has staggered the people of Tisbury, a little market town in South Wilts, where she has a large circle of friends and has lived all "her" life, by announcing that "she" is a man.

An even greater sensation has been caused following the publication of a banner at the same time of her marriage to the girl, who had worked with as a fellow-nurse in a female ward of the local institution, and with whom she was a close personal friend.

Schooldays. Eva Marry Burt, who lives at the Quarry, Tisbury, is a member of a large family. During her long residence at Tisbury she went to the local school as a little girl, always wore feminine clothes, and had numerous girl friends.

She worked as a female nurse, and is at present employed as a domestic servant. And yet she is a man, and soon to be a bridegroom!

"Eva is a handsome girl," of medium height, with dark, shortish hair, and a manner of great charm," said a local resident.

"When a room was full of women it sounded odd to hear her speaking in her husky mannish voice, but nobody suspected her real sex."

Indeed, I would have said she was a very feminine girl.

She had many girl friends, but her best was Miss Sarah Matilda Edwards, who is to be her bride. They were seen together constantly—and that must have been their courting."

Tenor Voice. "Eva was always shy with men, but her good looks and religious work won her many friends."

Mr. Burt recently consulted a solicitor, and after a doctor's certificate had been obtained the position as regularised, the birth certificate was amended, and the original name changed to Evan Montague Burt.

"The couple are to be married by me about Easter," said the Rev. W. Hall, Wesleyan minister at Tisbury, Dorset.

Burt was widely known as a woman, and regularly preached at our chapel. When not engaged as a local preacher, he often acted as woman soloist, singing in a tenor voice."

SOWING RICE BY AEROPLANE. INTERESTING FEAT IN CALIFORNIA. [UNITED PRESS.] Gridley, Cal., April 25.—Two aeroplanes flying at an altitude of 200 ft. to-day began a novel task—the planting of the rice crops of Butte and Colusa counties. Previous experiments had shown conclusively, it was stated by those in charge, that such a method of sowing the rice was more rapid and economical beyond the possibility of any other known means. Water had been turned into all the field. Each aeroplane carried 500 lb. of seed each trip, spreading the seed rapidly over the flooded fields, and then returning to an adjacent base for more seed.

CHARLES CHAPLIN'S LOVE STORY.

FRIENDSHIP WITH SEVEN-YEAR-OLD CHILD.

"MY LITTLE GIRL."

The fact that Charles Chaplin has seriously endangered his eyesight was one of the intimate details revealed in a Daily Express representative in Paris by Mrs. Lita Grey Chaplin, the famous comedian's former wife, who obtained a divorce from him in 1927.

She unfolded the story of her childhood love for the world's greatest film actor whom no one could quite understand because of his art and dual personality.

"I played on Charles Chaplin's knees when I was seven," she said. "He gave me my first film contract to play in 'The Kid' when I was twelve. He married me when I was sixteen. I am the mother of his two sons, but as for understanding him as a wife—as for sensing his innermost thoughts and feelings, and being in rapport with him as two twin souls should be—why, he is still a robot to me, and to all other women, too, I am sure.

Idealism and Ideas.

"To me he is the greatest artist the world will know for years to come. He is packed full of idealism and ideas, and he will never be able to live long enough to carry out all his ideas. He is the only film star who has nobody to think for him. He thinks for himself and does everything himself. He has endangered his eyesight and may go blind because he works so hard in the glare of the arc lamp, and even insists on cutting his films himself.

"Do you still love him?" I asked. Mrs. Chaplin turned her face away and sighed.

"I would not like to say," she replied. "He was the first man I ever knew. I was only seven when I first met him in a little Hollywood tea-shop round the corner from his studio, where he would slip away when he could snatch a moment to get a cup of tea. He used to come in with all his make-up on, his funny baggy trousers, shoes, cane, and bowler hat. I used to gaze at him with worshipping, childish eyes till one day he noticed me.

Her First Part.

"I met him again when I was twelve. I was leaning over the wall of our back yard in Hollywood on holiday from school. Charlie came down the road with a film director I knew and I waved to them excitedly and the other man brought Charlie and introduced him to me.

"After I had shaken hands with him Charlie said, 'Why, it is my little girl of the tea shop.' That was a rather wonderful moment. After that I used to go along to his studio every spare moment I had, and sitting very quietly in a corner I loved to watch him at his work.

"Then when the time came for me to go back to school I went up to say good-bye to him. 'How would you like to act for me,' he said, and after he had persuaded my parents I signed a year's contract with him to play on the screen. I played as Angel Sweetheart in the heaven scenes in 'The Kid,' and when he discovered I photographed much older than I looked in real life he engaged me to star in 'Gold Rush.'

Loveable Memories.

"We made three reels of it together and then he asked me to marry him, and made me give up the screen to become his wife. I still used to go and watch him work after we were married and the babies came, but it was not the same.

"Charlie lived only for his art. As a husband he was much too moody, but I still have some very loveable memories of him. One day he could not eat his dinner because his car had run over a mongrel dog on his way home from the studio. He could not get his mind off that dog.

"We are still friends though, and now that we are apart I understand him a little better. He comes to see the children often. They are five and three years old now, and I have always tried to give them rather a wonderful idea of their father. They are both inordinately proud of him.

"The two little boys are in California with my grandmother. Once I overheard Charles, jun., talking with the little girl next door through a little hole in the fence. 'My daddy is better than yours,' shouted the little girl, 'he is a business man.' Oh, no! answered my little son, with great dignity. 'Mine's much better than that; mine's a funny daddy.'

"Charlie is very fond of his sons, but I do not think he really understands children, though he acts principally for them."

Mrs. Chaplin is now acting on the stage in London, and is moving or she may go to Berlin. She is like that, and she is going to London first. He is going to London first, and then, by a strange coincidence, he has booked rooms at the same hotel in which his former wife is at present staying in Paris.

THE SILVER SCREEN.

"HYSTERIC" AT THE QUEEN'S.

It is a good to see a picture which has an original story to tell, and when the telling of it is mainly in the hands of such a capable actor as Reginald Denny, one gets an ideal combination.

"One Hysterical Night," the all-talker now showing at the Queen's Theatre, is a film which is quite both in subject and treatment.
One does not associate humour with life in a lunatic asylum, but Denny as Napoleon, and sundry other notable historic figures make a comic "hot-pot" of history which is funny and original. Behind all this fooling there is a story of wicked persons having designs on Napoleon's fortune, and there is,
of course, a little romance with Josephine as well.

The pictures which precede the big film are particularly good.
There are two really humorous
"talkies," and a very comic animal picture which is exceedingly clever.
The short films showing the adventures of the Pat Rooney family, and the friendly lesson in motoring are rich in real humour, while the news reel is also most interesting.

Stirling Naval Pictures.

"Convoy," Robert Kane's million-dollar picture of the U.S. Navy at war, was shown last night at the Majestic Theatre, Kowloon. A tremendous spectacle of the sea, this great epic, which was four months in the making, and into which were poured the efforts of more than 3,000 actors and extras, is in many respects a film history of the U.S.
Navy during the World War. It is the first picture to present an accurate account of the service of ships and sailors, and its accuracy is guaranteed by the United States Navy Department, who co-operated in producing the picture.

Featured by such sensational scenes as the actual battle of the North Sea, in which pictures of German ships sinking, photographed by naval officers, during the war, are shown, "Convoy" shows for the first time just how spies operated, and tells a tale from real life of the apprehension of their chief.
The plot is based on John Taintor Foote's famous story "The Song of the Dragon."

Dorothy Mackaill and Lowell
Sherman head the brilliant all-star cast, whose work in this film surpasses all their past performances.

HUMAN POST OFFICE.

MAN WITH 30 LETTERS ON HIS PERSON.

A Chinese, who was arrested on the morning of March 24 at Connaught Road Central for having over 30 letters in his possession, was charged before Mr. A. W. G. H. Grantham at the Central Magistracy on Saturday with carrying the correspondence with the intent of conveying them to certain persons in outposts when such delivery should only be executed through the Post Office.

Mr. A. E. Hall, for the accused, submitted that his client had no case to answer, as, although he was found in possession of the letters, there was no evidence to prove that the man had no intention of sending the letters through the Post Office. Mr. Hall pointed out that the time when the accused was arrested was as early as 5 a.m.

His Worship, however, did not agree with Mr. Hall, commenting on the fact that when accused was arrested he was wearing a vest which was out in such a manner that it had a good number of pockets, which were actually used for holding the letters. The Magistrate remarked that such behaviour was suspicious and fined accused $100 or 6 weeks' imprisonment in default of payment.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONG KONG.

"Everlasting punishment" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday.
The Golden Text was: "Wherefore doth a living man complain, a man for the punishment of his sins? Let us search and try our ways, and turn again to the Lord." (Lam: 3: 39, 40).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible:
"Judge not, that ye be not judged:
For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again" (Matt. 7: 1, 2).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook,
"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Divine Science reveals the necessity of sufficient suffering, either before or after death, to quench the love of sin. To remit the penalty due for sin, would be for Truth to pardon error" (p.
38).

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE.

ENJOYABLE DAY'S SPORT.

MR. RALPH—AN OLD FRIEND.

A large number of boys and girls were present on Saturday at Caroline Hill ground, kindly lent by the South China Athletic Association, when St. Joseph's College held their 14th annual athletic meeting on Saturday in ideal conditions. Except for the drizzly weather, the meeting was a success in every way, the management being in the capable hands of the staff and a large number of old boys.

The College was extremely generous in extending races to other schools, as no fewer than nine events were exclusively reserved for boys and girls not from St. Joseph's.
A lengthy list of events were contested and many beautiful finishes were seen, especially among the junior boys, many of whom showed promise of becoming first class athletes in the future.

Much interest centred in the tag-of-war between the Matriculation Class and Class 2A. The "Matric" hefties won by two straight pulls,
and later, in an unofficial event, defeated a team formed by old boys.

The senior championship of the College was won by H. Siew and the junior championship by A.
Ngam.

In the invitation relay race for schools, St. Paul's College was first and got little opposition from the other two teams, Queen's College and Wanchai School.

Prior to the distribution of prizes,
Rev. Bro. Aymar, the Director of the College, and Mr. E. Ralphs made short speeches.

In extending a welcome to Mr.
Ralphs, Brother Aymar said that it was a pleasure to have Mr. Ralphs among them that afternoon, as the College regarded him as an old friend who had always shown much interest in their work.

Mr. Ralphs replied that although it was not the first occasion that he presented prizes at a sports meeting, it gave him much pleasure to perform the ceremony that afternoon. Mr. Ralphs said that he was always glad to attend a St. Joseph's College sports meeting as he could always be assured of a good and wholesome day's sport.

Three hearty cheers and a "St.
Joseph's Tiger" were accorded Mr.
Ralphs at the conclusion of the prize-giving.

The Committee of St. Joseph's College Athletic Sports offers its thanks to the proprietors of the Hotel Savoy, to all donors of prizes and subscribers to the sports fund, as well as to all generous helpers who contributed to the success of the meeting.

MOVE FOR GARCIA'S RELEASE.

MATTER NOW BEFORE PROCURATOR.

RECOMMENDATION ENDORSED BY POLICE.

An application for the release from prison of Mr. Carlos Garcia,
Mr. G. F. del Valle, and Mr.
Hector Fournier has been endorsed by the Municipal police department and is now in the hands of Mr. Wang Chen Nan, chief procurator of the 2nd Branch Higher Court of Kiangsu. If Mr. Wang accepts the police recommendations attached to the application, the three men will be given their freedom within the next few days.
This information was obtained on April 29 from Dr. O. Fischer, who acted as defence counsel throughout the well-known "Wheel Case" at the former Provisional Court.

Mr. Garcia and Mr. del Valle were sentenced on July 28, 1929, to one year's imprisonment and $1,000 by Dr. John C. H. Wu, then President of the Criminal Division of the Provisional Court, for being concerned in the operation of an alleged gambling hall at 151c Bubbling Well Road. Mr. Fournier was similarly sentenced later in the year. Mr. Garcia and Mr. del Valle appealed against their conviction, but their appeal was dismissed by the Appellate Division of the Provisional Court on October 1, 1929, and they commenced serving their sentences the following day, the court ordering that no allowance should be made for the period spent in custody pending the appeal. Accordingly their sentences dated from July 28, 1929, and with the usual allowance for good conduct given to those serving prison sentences, they would be released at the end of this month.

Dr. Fischer said that Mr. Garcia intended to reopen the whole question of Mexican extraterritoriality after his release from prison. He was activated in this connection by the recent acknowledgement by the Nanking authorities of the fact that the Sino-Mexican treaty did not expire until November, 1929. It had been contended by the prosecution throughout his, Mr. del Valle's, and Mr.
Fournier's trials that Mexican relinquished their extraterritorial rights in 1927 and that they were, therefore, subject to Chinese law and practice. The court upheld this contention in the face of contrary evidence produced by the defence.

The Council, the prison authorities, and the police were deserving of praise for the way in which they had co-operated with him during and subsequent to the anxious days of his clients' fight against imprisonment, Dr. Fischer said. The police and the Council especially had done everything possible to lighten his labours on behalf of his clients.

Mr. Garcia has been extremely popular with the prison officials since the first day of his imprisonment. His conduct throughout has been exemplary, and the officials have given their support to coun-sell's application for his release from custody. —N.G. Daily News.

PROFITTEERING NURSING HOMES.

ALLEGED EXTORTIONATE CHARGES.

Another broadside has been fired in the hospital nursing home war
by the Royal Westminster Ophthalmic Hospital.
The hospitals attacked the alleged extortionate fees and inferior treatment given in nursing homes. The nursing homes replied that patients paid readily for the personal comfort and "hotel" atmosphere of the homes rather than live in the cold disciplinary environment of a hospital.

Already many hospitals embrace private wards, and now the Royal Westminster Ophthalmic Hospital has undertaken to supply all the comforts of a nursing home, plus the best scientific treatment.

Like Hotel Lounge.

"We offer patients a private room with central heating, hot and cold running water, light, maintenance, generous feeding, and full nursing services for an inclusive fee of six guineas a week," said the secretary yesterday.

"We supply tea free to patients' friends. Our rooms are fitted and furnished like the best rooms in a modern hotel, and there is a special sitting room with amusements and wireless where patients may meet and chat as if they were in a hotel lounge.

"We supply comforts equal to the most luxurious nursing home and unequalled medical treatment at moderate rates. Nursing home fees run from 15 to 30 guineas and are rarely less than 10 guineas a week.

"We feel that at long last we are providing suitable accommodation and treatment for the middle classes."

The fight between nursing home and hospital bids fair to produce sickness de luxe!

A HIGHWAY INCIDENT.

MOSLEM MOTORIST AND CHINESE CHAUFFEUR.

Ghulam Mahomed, a public motor driver, was charged before Mr.
A. W. G. H. Grantham at the Central Magistracy on Saturday with assaulting a Chinese with a stick.

Evidence was given that the complainant was driving along Chater Road when the defendant, who was standing on the road, stretched out his hand and slapped the complainant.

Complainant came out of his car and demanded an explanation of the Indian driver's action. The Indian then beat him with a stick.

Mrs. Ho Wing, who was a passenger in the complainant's car, corroborated the evidence given by the Chinese driver.

The defendant, who denied having used his stick on the complainant, was fined $30, and further ordered to pay a fine of 99 as compensation to the driver.

HAPPY CELEBRATION.

INTERNATIONAL GATHERING
AT DINNER-DANCE.

Almost unnoticed, in the Roof Garden of the Hong Kong Hotel, celebrations took place last Wednesday in honour of H.R.H. Princess Juliana, only child of Her Majesty the Queen of the Netherlands and the Prince Consort, who came of age on that date.

The Netherlands Consul-General (Mr. M. J. Quist) and the Netherlands Community had invited a number of friends to attend a dinner-dance, the party numbering over 100. The guests were received by Mr. Quist, assisted by Mrs. Stokkink and Mr. Stokkink, the recently arrived new Manager of the Netherlands Trading Society, who, without being a member of the Hollandsche Club (Netherlands Tennis Club) was elected its chairman by acclamation only a couple of weeks ago. The other principal hosts were: Mr. and Mrs. Endert, Mr. C. de Bruijn and Mrs. de Jongh.

Amongst the guests were H.E. Major-General Sandilands, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., who was accompanied by Lieut. Baskerville-Glegg, the Hon. Mr. Hallifax, C.M.G. (Colonial Secretary) and Mrs. Hallifax, Rear-Admiral R. A. S. Hill, N.R., accompanied by Paymaster Commander Pasmore, Hon. Mr. Wolfe, C.M.G., Hon. Dr. Wellington and Mrs. Wellington, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack. Some members of the Consular Body were present, such as the Consul-General for Panama and Mrs. Vallarino, the newly arrived Consul-General for Peru and Mrs. Lloa, the Peruvian Vice-Consul and Mrs. Mognaschi, the German Consul and Mrs. Hahn, the Acting Japanese Consul-General and Mrs. Yoshida, Mr. Shantz, Acting American Consul-General, the Consul for Denmark and Norway and Mrs. Karsten Larsen, the Acting Belgian Consul-General and Mrs. Bolsius. Notables like the Hon. Mr. Shenton, Dr. and Mrs. Black, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Grimble, Dr. and Mrs. Strahan, Mrs. Gundesen and others also attended. A bevy of charming young ladies, befitting a coming of age party, complete the ensemble.

In the course of the evening, Mr. Quist welcomed the guests on behalf of the community and himself and made appropriate references to the Netherlands Royal Family, the House of Orange Nassau, and the Princess. From his words we quote the following: "With her advent, full sunshine entered into the lives of the members of the Royal Family and for 21 years the sun has continued shining." "We can hardly realize that a prouder Royal Couple exists than the Queen, and the Prince Consort, a more loving Royal Grandmother than the Queen Mother."

Mr. Quist ended by proposing the toast of H.M. the King, followed by the National Anthem. His Excellency the General in a suitable speech returned warm thanks for the hearty welcome extended to the guests. The General was eminently suited to respond, having spent three years at the Hague as H.M. Military Attaché. In happily chosen phrases, he referred to the Royal Family of Holland whom he had had the privilege of meeting frequently. Appreciative references were made to the people and to the beautiful scenery of Holland—its flower fields just in full bloom, the wind mills, the sleepy canals, and its stately paintings. Every Netherlands lander felt that a true friend of Holland was speaking, a man fully qualified to do so.

His Excellency wound up by proposing the toast of Her Majesty and the Royal Family singing out for the occasion Princess Juliana on account of her coming of age.

The toast was followed by the playing of the National Anthem, "Wilhelmus van Nassouwe," which was sung by the whole Dutch community. Dining stopped at 1 a.m., when the licence, so courteously granted by the Authorities, expired. Altogether a most enjoyable evening was spent by all.

SACRED HEART COLLEGE.

LADIES TAKE PART IN ATHLETICS.

HEADMASTER SPEAKS ON IDEAL EDUCATION.

An enjoyable day's sport was conducted by the Sacred Heart English College at the Kowloon Football Club ground on Saturday. Despite the drizzly weather, the whole programme, consisting of no less than 39 events, was gone through and some excellent finishes were witnessed by the large crowd present.

There was an interesting variety of events, ladies taking part in three races.

The half mile race (open to the Colony) was run in a heavy shower, which came directly after the runners started, and was won by Mr. T. J. Hemsley, with Mr. C. M. Silva taking second place.

The Challenge Shield was won by Li Koon Hing, who won the greatest number of events.

Headmaster's Address.

Prior to the distribution of prizes by the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, Mr. J. S. Shuk, Headmaster, said: "Before I call on our President of the 8th annual athletic sports to make his address, I would like to thank you all for honouring us with your presence this afternoon, and to take this opportunity to mention a few activities of our college."

As the proverb says that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," so it has always been our aim and object that besides training our boys on the use of books, we have paid much attention to their physical culture. All kinds of games are encouraged, especially outdoor games which are of special importance to Chinese boys of the present generation. However, such games are by no means allowed to usurp the place of learning in the school curriculum. We are also much indebted to the Government for granting us the use of the place of land opposite to our school as a play-ground on which our boys recreate themselves after their school work.

As to the moral and civil discipline of school life, we attach much importance to religious instruction, being aware that by it the moral standard could be raised. Another attempt we make to cultivate good manners in our students is to make them behave well in school as well as at home. Should any student behave badly, he is subject to severe punishment. However, we could not achieve much success in this unless we have the parents' co-operation.

We also realise that education which aims merely at the production of proficient students is not enough. There is something beyond this. A student should be made a perfect and all-round man fit for any kind of work. With this object in view, we give our students not only an intellectual education, but also a moral as well as a physical one. To attain this, we make our students take part in sports and social functions are held about twice a year.

In conclusion I beg to say that there are satisfactory results in the school work and the attendance is good throughout the year.

Before I resume my seat I sincerely thank the Kowloon Football Club, the Ambulance Mongkok Division and the Scouts of South China for their kind help and co-operation to which this function owes its success.

Mr. Braga's Speech.

The Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga addressed the gathering as follows: Ladies and gentlemen, when we met on these beautiful grounds for a similar function last year, the clock of the weather was not too kind to us. The sky was cloudy and overcast and there was intermittent drizzle. To-day we meet under almost identical weather conditions, but I feel sure, the gathering will agree with me that they do not detract from the enjoyment of the afternoon's excellent sport. For this we are very largely indebted to the Headmaster of the Sacred Heart English College, Mr. Shuk, and his energetic Sports Committee, assisted, as they have been, by the kind Chinese ladies who have helped to make this afternoon's meeting such a conspicuous success. In large measure the Committee of the Kowloon Football Club has helped the staff of the College in a very material way. If they had not placed their beautiful grounds at the disposal of the Sports Committee, I am afraid the Committee would have been very hard put to it to find an equally good ground for holding their annual sports. I have been asked to say that the guests of the College and the spectators in general would like to thank the President of the Kowloon Football Club and his Committee for the loan for these grounds to-day to the boys of the Sacred Heart College.

An All-Round Man. When Mr. Shuk said to me the other day that he had invited me for the part which I am acting in connection with these sports in the afternoon, I asked him to let me know just what he desired me to say on the present occasion. From the

"TALKIES" ON STEAMERS.

EXPERIMENT ON A
PRESIDENT BOAT.

LAST NIGHT'S NOVEL
ENTERTAINMENT.

Some sixty guests were entertained on board the a.s. President Madison last night when a dinner was given on board followed by a "talkie" performance.

The President Madison is the first of the Dollar Steamship Company's trans-Atlantic liners to have "talkies" installed on board and the picture screened last night, "Paramount reel named 'Sweetie'" showed what a success "talkies" on board ship could be.

Hitherto the President liners have had only cinema shows on board but it is understood that these are being gradually replaced by talking films. Last night's experiment augurs well for the success of "talkies" and it will not be long before every ship that now shows their patrons moving pictures will soon adopt the "talkies."

One could hear very much better in the ship than in a bigger theatre. The installation on board the President Madison may or may not be more modern than at the local "talkie" houses but the voices and the music were very much clearer and the entertainment was much appreciated by all who saw it, the more so because the story chosen for the demonstration was a happy one with a humorous tone running through it.

notes he has kindly sent me I see that he has stressed the point that, as far as his College is concerned, education which aims merely at the production of proficient students is not enough. There is something beyond this, he says. "His ideal is that a student should be made a perfect and an all-round man fit for any kind of work. With this object in view, his School gives its students not only an intellectual education, but also a moral as well as a physical one. That his aims are not idealistic alone, the performance of the contestants in the various events on the long programme of running and jumping that we have followed with so much interest to-day goes to prove. I am glad, therefore, to be in a position to congratulate Mr. Shuk and his staff on the signal success which has attended his efforts in providing a physical education for his students side by side with the intellectual training of the youths under his charge."

He has mentioned also the importance which he attaches to the moral and civil discipline of school life, associated with which he includes religious instruction, by which he hopes to raise the moral standard of his school. It has been his endeavour to cultivate good manners in his students, and it goes without saying that the performance of the boys of the Sacred Heart College is such that Shuk can congratulate himself that the standard he has set himself to attain, though high, has certainly been achieved.

The Sporting Instinct.

I have a perfect recollection of the few suggestions I made when speaking at the sports prize-giving on these grounds last year. There were then sporadic demonstrations in the Colony of unsportsmanlike temper by spectators who were influenced by the success or failure of one team against the other. It is very gratifying, indeed, for me to be able to comment on the fact that the past year has been one conspicuous by the absence of any serious complaint in the public playing fields of the Colony. The true sporting instinct, and the spirit of give-and-take has been a feature of the sports meetings in Hong Kong. In this respect, boys of the Sacred Heart College have every reason to be proud that their behaviour in school and at play is such as command general admiration.

It is very gratifying to learn that the Government, ever mindful of the benefits arising from the encouragement to sport and outdoor games, have granted the College the use of a piece of land opposite the School for a playground. And I am happy to be told that the boys are making full use of the advantage thus placed within their reach when their school work is over for the day.

When the recommendations of the Playing Fields Committee are carried out—as we all hope they will be put into effect soon—greater provision for football grounds and cricket pitches will be found that should further stimulate the interest so widely and happily shown by Chinese students in these interesting, popular games.

I have again to express thanks for the interest and the generous support of the Sacred Heart College for the very pleasant afternoon we have spent and also to tender our best wishes for the continued success of the College at work and in play. (Applause.)

PUNJABIS WIN ATHLETIC CUP.

SOMERSET'S FIGHT FOR INTER-UNIT TITLE.

The finals of the Hong Kong Area Athletic Meet were decided at Soekunpoo on Saturday when a large crowd turned out to watch the events keenly contested by representatives from every unit stationed in the Colony. The Inter-Unit Championship Cup went to the Punjabis, with the 1st Bn. the Somerset Light Infantry coming second and the Royal Artillery third. Amongst the many interested spectators were Mrs. Southern, accompanied by Capt. Swynn, A.D.C., and Major-General Sandilands, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O. At the conclusion of the sports, Major-General Sandilands gave away the prizes, after which he congratulated the Punjabis on their fine victory and also the 31st Battery, R.A., upon winning the United Services Hockey Shield.

The weather was fine when the meeting commenced at 3 p.m. but shortly afterwards rain began to fall at intervals for the rest of the afternoon, but this was not enough to dampen the spirits of the officials, who carried off their part of the work in such fashion that the sports turned out to be a great success, in spite of the efforts of Jupiter Pluvius to spoil things.

In winning the Athletic Cup, the Punjabis scored 61½ points, and they showed remarkable keenness throughout, and in the face of almost certain defeat, they "hung on" to the battle grimly, and eventually finished two points ahead of the S.L.I., who occupied second place. The final placings were:—3rd Bn. 15th Punjab Regt.: 61½ points. 1st Bn. the Somerset Light Infantry: 59½ points. Royal Artillery: 45½ points. H.K.S. Bde.: 43½ points. 2nd Bn. SHANGHAI RACES.

CROSS-BREDS BARRED.

CROSS-BREDS BARRED.

The Spring Meeting of the Shanghai Race Club commences to-day, the all-important Shanghai Championships being fixed for Wednesday. The race has a particular interest in the Far East by reason of the number of sweep-tickets sold on this event.

The interesting feature of the meeting which commences to-day is the fact that no race has been arranged for cross-bred animals, the events being entirely confined to China ponies.

It is also interesting to note that very generous stakes are being provided in some instances, particularly in the Spring Handicap, which is divided into three classes. The winner of each class is due to receive Tls. 800. In this connection the following statement, which is printed in big type on the first page of the programme, is interesting:—

"Should there be less than six starters in any race, the Stakes for Placed Ponies in such race will be reduced to half the Advertised Amounts."

The Champions.

For the Shanghai Champions—a long list of ponies have already qualified during the "Extra" season. Chief among these is Wheat-croft, who won the event in the autumn of 1928, spring of 1929, and autumn of 1929, besides being placed on four other occasions.

Busy Bee, who won the event in the autumn of 1928 and was second last autumn, has also qualified. Alligator, who was third on three previous occasions, has also won this season, so that he can start. Other first-class ponies which have qualified to date are Ontario, Cleveland, It is noteworthy that Pat, who won in the spring of 1929 and who was beaten out of a place last autumn, has so far not qualified. A pony of this calibre, however, is not to be denied, and no doubt in the course of the next two days Pat will duly qualify to start in Shanghai's biggest racing event.

land Highlanders. Time: 1min. 53 secs.

One Mile (Open).—1, Hakin Khan; 2, Jhauphi; 3, Mangal Singh. Time: 5mins. 4.5secs. In the High Jump, Long Jump and Putting the Shot the height and distance achieved by the two representatives have been added together, as the competition is Inter-Unit and not an individual contest.

The United Services Hockey Shield was won by the 31st Battery Royal Artillery.

The Inter-Unit Athletic Cup was won by the 3rd Bn. 15th Punjab Regt. The 1st Bn. the Somerset Light Infantry were runners-up with the Royal Artillery occupying third place.

THE NEW PHONES.

EXASPERATING PUBLIC SLACKNESS.

CARELESSNESS CAUSES MUCH INCONVENIENCE.

In spite of extensive advertising in all the local newspapers and the circulating of subscribers, the telephone service was in a terrible tangle yesterday as a result of public slackness. The change-over from the manual to the automatic system was made at midnight on Saturday, and so far as the engineers were concerned, everything went according to plan. It was the public who did the bungling. We learn of one man who was called out of bed at two o'clock on Sunday morning by a "wrong number" call. What he said need not be quoted, but he is willing at any time to repeat his observations, in English or Chinese, to the person who called him up!

It is very disappointing to find telephone subscribers so hopelessly unable to understand the simple operation of the automatic service, but no doubt after another day or two people will have become accustomed to the new system, and there will be no more difficulties such as had to be dealt with yesterday.

Noon-Time Breakfast.

Interviewed by one of our representatives at about noon yesterday an official of the Telephone Company stated that they had been working hard all night and that he was just going to have his breakfast!

The change-over itself had been a success, but it was the subscribers themselves who were causing all the trouble. Instead of learning beforehand how to use the dial in making calls, a great number of people preferred to wait till after the change-over, and then practice on their own instruments.

There was, of course, a general mix-up, for in the first place some people called up the old numbers, while others did not know the first thing about dialling. The result was that at noon yesterday the Telephone Company's offices were crowded with subscribers who were anxious to learn the gentle art of dialling. The harassed official in charge of the demonstration office looked as if he had been working for weeks without a break. He was apparently feeling very hot, but he kept remarkably cool under the heavy fire of questions shot at him with the regularity of a machine-gun. "Why does the bell ring?" "How can I tell when the line is engaged?" "Will there be any more wrong numbers?" and hundreds more.

3,000 Machines Out of Action.

Our representative was informed that soon after the change-over 300 lines were put out of commission because of wrong dialling, and this number had increased to 3,000 at noon yesterday. There were some 60 mechanics in addition to the European staff, hard at work all day yesterday effecting the necessary repairs.

Late last night officials of the Telephone Company were still as busy as ever. Our representative called shortly after 11 o'clock and was told that quite a number of the telephones which had been put out of order had been repaired, but there was still a good deal of work to be done.

Up to a late hour last night demonstrations were being given to subscribers who wanted to know about the new system.

RICE BAN LIFTED.

WUCHOW PERMITTED TO EXPORT TO CANTON.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CANTON, May 2. General Chen Tsai Tong today gave orders for the lifting of the ban on the exportation of rice from Wuchow, in order to help relieve the market in Canton. The city still has in store some 120,000 piculs of rice, one half of which can be exported to Canton without affecting the food problem in Wuchow, according to Mr. Au Fong Po, Mayor of Wuchow.

When General Chen Tsai Tong took possession of the city some four months ago, he ordered the merchants to be responsible for 60,000 piculs of rice for the feeding of his armies. But no merchant was willing to shoulder such a responsibility.

With the lifting of the ban, the rice dealers in Wuchow are now again preparing to send big shipments of the staple to Canton, where it commands a much higher price.

STORY OF VENEZIA PIRACY.

PIRATES SWIM ASHORE.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CANTON, May 4. The two pirate boats which the Canton Navy captured off Ling Fa Shan on the West River last week in connection with the attempt to pirate the s.s. Venezia while on its way to Canton have been towed to Canton. The boats are long and narrow and still have a number of guns and a large quantity of piratical weapons on board. But no one was on board; all the pirates having made good their escape by jumping into the water and swimming to land at the approach of the Government gunboats cruising down the River. They threw practically all their revolvers and rifles overboard. No attempt was made to chase the pirates owing to the lack of marines. A number of shots, however, were fired from the gunboats at the fleeing pirates, but whether or not they took effect is not certain.

The story of the attempted piracy was vividly related to the local pressmen by a passenger on board the s.s. Venezia at the time. He said that when the boat was near Ling Fa Shan which is not far from Canton, two pirate boats suddenly appeared from a tributary, slowly moving towards the centre of the River to the path of the Venezia. When they reached there, they stopped in formation with one on each side of mid-stream, hoping thus to attack the Hong Kong boat. But the captain of the latter had realized what they were up to and steamed ahead at full speed, thus preventing the boat from being attacked by the pirates. Emergency signals were sent out. They were picked up by the Government gunboats on duty further up the River. The gunboats upon learning of the matter immediately proceeded down the River toward Ling Fa Shan where the pirate watercraft were. They soon sighted the pirate boats and at once opened fire. The pirates became terrified and jumped into the water and swam to shore, to escape from being captured. When the gunboats arrived on the scene, all the pirates had made good their getaway. The Venezia was then escorted to Canton, and the pirate boats were towed in later.

Owing to the unsettled conditions piracy and banditry have of late been particularly rampant, especially along the West River. It appears that they are now extending their field of activity to include the big boats on the Canton-Hong Kong run, a proposition which until now has been considered too tough to tackle.

CANTON SHIPS ARMS TO WUCHOW.

HEAVY FIGHTING EXPECTED SHORTLY.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CANTON, May 4. Heavy fighting between the opposing forces in Kwangsi is expected in the course of the next day or so, according to a report received in Canton from Wuchow today.

General Chen Tsai Tong safely returned to Wuchow from Canton yesterday afternoon and is directing the much-talked-of offensive against the rebel armies in Kweichow and Szechow, important points of the upper part of the West River, towards which the opposing armies have been converging. The message further adds that General Chiang Kwong Nai has left Wuchow for the front with his army in compliance with the order of the Commander-in-Chief. Large quantities of arms and supplies have been shipped to Wuchow from Canton for this purpose.

Reports are also current that a big part of the "Ironsides" have left Nanning for the Kwei River, their object being to attack the rear of the pro-Nanking forces with Wuchow as their objective. It thus appears that heavy fighting is imminent. The pro-Nanking forces are fighting an offensive battle in the upper district of the West River and a defensive one on the Kwei River.

CHINESE POSTAGE STAMPS.

NEW ISSUE ORDERED IN ENGLAND.

An order for the printing of 2,500,000 postage stamps for the Chinese Government has been secured by Messrs. Thomas De La Rue and Co., Ltd., London. A member of the firm said to a reporter: "This is the largest order of its kind ever given to an individual printer in the world. The stamps are of new design and of different denominations. The contract will run into a sum of about £100,000, and work will be found for several years for a large number of people. The contract was obtained against foreign competition."

REDS' SHORTLIVED SUCCESS.

TAIPAO OCCUPIED FOR AN HOUR.

MAGISTRATE WHO DIRECTED TROOPS IN PERSON.

Taipao, a district to the north of Swatow, was latterly occupied by the Reds, but the invaders were eventually driven off by the troops, who recaptured the district.

According to a report submitted to the Canton Government by the Magistrate of Taipao, a section of the Chu-Mo Reds, numbering more than a thousand, including hundreds of the mutineers of the revolting Kiangsi brigade who have turned over to the Reds, attacked Taipao on Thursday last. The place soon fell into their hands, as the troops had not taken precautions, being unaware of their arrival. The marauders set fire to some streets and looted the shops. An hour later, the Magistrate, Mr. Leung Yuk Kuk, who happened to be a military expert, directed his troops in person in a counter-attack on the intruders. After six hours' fighting, the Reds were put to flight.

The Canton Government has also received a report from the Telegraph Office in Taipao to the effect that the Reds had stolen the official revenue of the office and carried away with them several members of the staff. The telegraph apparatus, however, was not tampered with.

WEDDINGS.

BROWN-COLLACO.

The wedding took place on Saturday at the Rosary Church, Kowloon, of Mr. Henry Christian Brown, of the Harbour Department, and Miss Irene Helen Collaco.

The Rev. G. M. Spada officiated, while the bride was given away by her father, and Messrs. Charlie Dodson and F. J. Brown were the best men.

The bride wore a white georgette dress with lace and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white roses and maidenhair fern. She was attended by the Misses Anna Brown, Rosario Fernandez and Joaquina Fernandez, all of whom were attired in dresses of mauve georgette. They carried bouquets of pink roses and maidenhair fern. The flower girls were the Misses Thelma Collaco and Regina Mattos, who wore dresses of lavender georgette, while Masters Sonny Brown and Peter Rull were the pages.

Mrs. Collaco, the bride's mother, wore a dress of black and white Celanese.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the bridegroom's residence in Hominin, and later the couple left for Canton and Macao, where the honeymoon is being spent.

The bride's going-away dress was a peach-colored georgette costume with hat to match.

Perdue-North.

The marriage arranged between Mr. Cecil Graham Perdue, Superintendent of Police, son of the Rev. Canon and Mrs. Perdue of Killala, County Mayo, Ireland, and Miss Margaret Knight North, formerly a nursing sister in the Government service, daughter of the late J. W. North Esq., A.R.A., and the late Mrs. North of Washford, Somerset, was solemnised by the Rev. W. Walton Rogers at St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon, on Saturday.

The ceremony was a quiet one owing to the fact that the bridegroom is still somewhat lame from an injury received last December. The bride was given away by Dr. G. W. Pope and attended by Mrs. Pope. Mr. G. Ring supported the bridegroom.

After the ceremony a reception was held at Peninsula Hotel, where a large number of friends of the bride and bridegroom gathered to wish them good luck. The health of the bride and bridegroom was proposed by the Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe, C.M.G., in a happy and witty speech, to which the bridegroom suitably replied. The bride and bridegroom left for home in the s.s. President Polk, which sailed early on Sunday morning.

WAR TO FLARE UP ANEW IN KWANGSI.

ALLIES DECIDE TO RESUME ATTACK.

FOREIGNERS REQUESTED TO VACATE WAR ZONES.

The Kwangsi warfare threatens to break out anew in the immediate future, as the Canton-Nanking troops have decided to resume the offensive against Sunchow and Kweichow as soon as the Yunnan troops, who had been ordered by the Central Government to attack Kwangsi from the west, arrive at Posh, in Western Kwangsi.

In this connection, the Canton Government has notified the Consular Body in Shanghai that the Canton land, naval and air forces will resume the general attack upon Sunchow and Kweichow very shortly and has requested that foreign residents in these areas and other districts along the upper reaches of the West River be asked to evacuate in 24 hours. The Chinese Government will not hold itself responsible for the protection of life and property in the case of those who refuse to leave these districts.

The Yunnan Provincial Government has dispatched Chow Pa Chin as its delegate to Canton to ask for funds for the war expenses of the Yunnan troops in Kwangsi. It is understood that the latter will not advance farther than Posh, on account of the internal unrest in their own province.

As already reported, the Kwangsi rebels have received a good round sum and large quantities of ammunition from Yen Hsi Shan as a subsidy and they are prepared to counter-attack their adversaries even though the latter abstain from resuming the offensive for the time being.

CIVIL SERVICE APPOINTMENTS.

NEW RULE AS TO NATIONALITY.

An interesting change is about to come into force in connection with the rules governing appointment to the British foreign diplomatic and consular services and Eastern Colonial Cadetships. Hitherto candidates for admission have had to be natural-born British subjects, and the children of fathers also natural-born British subjects. This rule has now been amended to read: "Every candidate must be a natural-born British subject, and the child of a person who is, or was at the time of death, a British subject."

The condition natural-born, as applying to the father, is dropped, this enabling, for instance, the son or daughter of a naturalised, but not natural-born British subject to qualify for admission, which is the primary reason for the modification of the regulations.

If a candidate, a British subject, does not fulfil all the requirements of the new rule as to nationality and descent, and the Civil Service Commissioners are satisfied that he is closely connected by ancestry and upbringing with his Majesty's Dominions, such a candidate may be accepted as eligible if the father or the paternal grandfather was a natural-born British subject, and had not acquired any other nationality by naturalisation, or by any other voluntary and formal act. Exceptions are also made in the case of natural-born British subjects who served in the war, those who completed a period of not less than five years on full pay in the Regular Forces, and in the case of candidates in a civil situation, to which they were admitted with the certificate of the Civil Service Commissioners.

THE KAI TAK FOLLIES.

CONCERT ON SATURDAY NIGHT.

The rain was probably responsible for the disappointing house at the concert given by the "Kai Tak Follies," which was held at the Naval Canteen Theatre on Saturday night.

The programme was a varied one, with quite a few humorous numbers, and L.S. Stretton proved very popular with his songs. The hit of the evening was "Our Parochial Gathering," which sent the audience into roars of laughter.

The programme was as follows:—Piano Solo..... Watling. Opening Chorus..... The Follies. A Lively..... Tower & Co. "Three Jolly Seamen"..... Banjo Solo..... Stretton and Muirhead. "Good English Ale"..... Talbert. Cox, Muirhead and Summers. Song..... Stretton. (Continued at foot of next column).

DOGS OF WAR ARE UNLEASHED.

FIGHTING REPORTED ON LUNGHAI LINE.

SHANSI PROVINCE IMPREGNABLE AGAINST ATTACK.

Fighting is reported to have occurred at Tongshan, on the Kiangsu-Honan border, on the Lunghai Railway line. Clashes are also reported to have occurred between the loyal troops under Han Fu Chu and the Shansi invaders at Kaotang, in Northern Shantung. The Honanese under Shih Yu San are attacking Western Shantung, while the troops under Sun Tien Ying and Jen Yin Chi are pressing upon Northern Anhui, with Pengpu, on the Tientsin-Pukow Railway, as their objective.

There have been heavy troop movements on the part of the Nanking forces. Chang Wai Cheung, Director of the Nanking Aviation Department, has left for the front with eight bombing planes to bombard Chengchow and Kaideng. Ten armoured cars have also left Hsuehchow for the front. Marshal Chiang Kai Shek has decided to leave for Hsuehchow to direct the Nanking troops.

In spite of the seemingly grave situation, no serious fighting, except minor clashes, has occurred, it is reliably reported.

Chang Hsueh Liang, the "Young General" of Manchuria, is still sitting on the fence.

That there is little hope of the Government troops conquering Shansi in case of a rebel defeat is the view of a Chinese paper, which says that the Shansi troops hold the strategic pass of Chengching, on the Shansi-Chihli border, which is easy to defend but exceedingly difficult to attack. Shansi produces enough foodstuffs for its people and armies, hence there should be no fear of a blockade by its adversaries. In quoting instances proving the difficulty of subduing Shansi, our Chinese contemporary says that it will be remembered that in 1925, the Kuomintang, in spite of having captured Taining, failed to invade Shansi. Again, in 1927, the Ankuochun (Fengtien troops) which desperately attacked Shabukow for months, also failed to occupy the Province. Moreover, the Shansi generals and troops are loyal to Yen Hsi Shan, who has been ruling Shansi as a "Model Governor" for nearly 20 years.

SOLDIER'S SEARCH FOR OPIUM.

DISAGREEABLE INCIDENT AT WENCHOW.

A member of the compradore's staff of the C.M.S. Taishun was severely manhandled by soldiers at Wenchow last week following a search for opium. Shipping people in Shanghai have informed the N.C. Daily News that the soldiers are carrying out unauthorized searches of vessels and that they are constantly assaulting people who attempt to reason with them.

The Taishun had been examined by Customs officials on the day in question and no opium was found. Later, a party of soldiers under a subordinate officer boarded the vessel and announced that they had come to look for opium. One of the compradore's staff asked them for their papers but, instead of producing these, the soldiers held him of him and gave him a severe beating.

They searched the ship from bow to stern and found that one of the passengers was smoking opium. This man was taken into custody and, incidentally, robbed of his belongings including a couple of rings, after which the soldiers went to the compradore's room and said that he must assume responsibility for the behaviour of the passengers. The compradore's accountant and a godown keeper tried to explain matters to them but the soldiers refused to listen and said that, until the compradore paid the fine, the two men would be kept in prison. The unfortunate fellows were then taken away and, at the time the Taishun sailed, they were still being detained.

"The Transmigration of Souls," Cox and Towers. The Ghost Walk..... Towers. Harshious House Hunting..... The Party. "Baby Dear"..... Tower & Co. Tally Ho..... Cox and Talbert. "If You Were Mine"..... Stretton. "Wireless up to date"..... A Demonstration.

CHEAPER MONEY.

WITHIN the last year and a half the directors of the Bank of England have changed the discount rate no less than nine times. Previous to this period the bank-rate stood unchanged for twenty-two months. Last week the Bank of England decided to reduce the rate from 3½ to 3 per cent. This is the lowest bank-rate since July, 1923, when it was raised from 3 per cent. to 4 per cent. It had then stood at 3 per cent. for a year, after showing a steady decline from 7 per cent. in 1920. The present reduction is the seventh since last September, when the rate was fixed at 6½ per cent. Since then the figure has been altered as follows:—

1929. Per cent.
October 31 6
November 21 5½
December 12 5

1930.
February 6 4½
March 6 4
March 20 3½
May 1 3

It will be observed that since October last the changes in the bank-rate have been uniformly downward, and not for seven years has the figure been as low as it stands to-day.

Cheaper money, of course, is generally welcomed by businessmen, and it has been rendered possible in London by the cessation of unhealthy speculation and the slump in commodity prices. The changes of the past few months are of great interest and importance in modern financial history. The speech of the Governor of the Bank of England at the half-yearly meeting last March rather suggested that the benefit of easier money and a concerted movement in that direction would not have been practicable but for that co-operation among central banks in the establishment of which he himself has played such a conspicuous part.

Conspicuous, perhaps, is hardly the right word, as Mr. Montagu's movements across the Atlantic and the Channel have been usually shrouded in an atmosphere of mystery which even the most lynx-eyed reporters could not penetrate. It is impossible to find any adequate domestic reasons for the rapid and remarkable change in the monetary situation in London during the past six months. The present abnormal ease, like the extreme stringency which preceded it, is due in the main to international causes. The most important reason for the rise in the bank-rate last year was the unparalleled speculative movement on the New York Stock Exchange, which lasted six or seven years, and in its later stages caused world-wide monetary disturbance. The United States not only reduced her foreign lendings but by the offer of high rates induced large amounts of foreign capital to flow westward across the Atlantic. As a consequence, interest rates were forced up in practically every country in the world. The collapse of the "boom" released very large funds, domestic and foreign, formerly locked up in securities, and the trade depression in the United States, which has been growing ever since the collapse of the "boom," has accentuated the plethora of money. Indeed, in New York the fall in money rates has been more marked than in London.

So far as can be judged at this distance, it seems that the stage in London is now all set for a long period of cheap money. The only unsatisfactory feature of the situation is that this steady decline in the bank-rate is due mainly to depressing economic conditions in practically all parts of the world. However, while this aspect of the case must not be entirely overlooked, it need not be unduly stressed, and it is pleasant to dwell upon the fact that owing to the lowering of money's earning power, it is forced into industry in search of more remunerative return. Simultaneously the reduction of interest charges means a lightening of the overhead burdens of industry, and it encourages both further expansion of established concerns and the establishment of new industrial and commercial enterprises. Latest mail advices from London indicate the general belief that Great Britain has reached the lowest point in the cycle, and although the upward movement may be both slow and difficult, it is being anticipated with absolute and complete confidence. Moreover, if Mr. Snowden can look forward to a long period of cheap money, during which the country's huge floating debt of about 600 million sterling will cost no more than from 2 to 3 per cent., it will mean very many millions saved for the Chancellor of the Exchequer in interest payments. All this is in favour of national prosperity, and although actual business in Britain is not, unfortunately, so brisk as it might be, yet there are indications of better times coming, and this latest reduction of the bank-rate simply confirms the impression that the economic barometer is at last slowly rising.

Ronald Colman, star of "Condemned," the Samuel Goldwyn picture which comes to the Queen's Theatre next Wednesday, has been going in steadily for a life of crime in one form or another for more than a year. With the announcement that the Goldwyn staff have bought "Raffles," the famous old gentleman crook-play for his next picture, it seems that his connection with the battles of the criminal against the world are to keep up for a while longer. In "Bulldog Drummond," his sensational triumph of last spring, he played the hero who foiled the machinations of a gang of blackmailing torturers. In "Condemned" he is a gallant thief who falls in love with the warden's wife while confined on Devil's Island, the most notorious prison in the world. And in "Raffles" he will be the high-born gentleman who steals jewels for sport, preferring the thrill of dedging the police to the thrills of tennis, or cricket, or the conventional.

The price of rice in Shanghai is still causing much concern there, says the Sinwampo. It will be recalled, the journal says, that some time ago the district government of Changshu-hsien issued an order prohibiting the shipping of rice from that district to other places on the ground that this year's crop was not so good as expected. Now, the journal says, the District Government of King Shan-hsien has followed Changshu-hsien's example by banning shipping rice to other places, especially Shanghai, on the same pretext. The two districts mentioned above, the journal continues, are great producing centres upon which local people depend much for the supply of rice, and with the exportation from there banned, local prices will rise higher soon.

The twin-screw motor ship Tuscan Star, constructed by Palmer's Shipbuilding and Iron Co., in addition to being the largest refrigerated vessel afloat, is the first motor ship in the fleet of the Blue Star Line, and will compare her results on service with the present steam-driven vessels. The vessel, which has completed successful trials of the Tynce, is a first-class passenger ship, with de luxe accommodation for twelve passengers. An idea of the refrigerated capacity may be obtained from the fact that the vessel has 85 miles of piping, and that the total insulated space is 656,600 cubic feet, with an additional 2,600 cubic feet in the provision rooms. This exceeds by 20,000 feet the insulated space in the Sultan Star, which was hitherto the biggest refrigerated vessel afloat. The Tuscan Star has seven large holds with 24 insulated spaces, and it requires 300 tons of brine to fill the system. The vessel has an overall length of 490 feet, a beam of 66 feet, and a moulded depth of 30 feet 9 inches. Her dead-weight carrying capacity is 12,000 tons, and on her trials a speed of over 17 knots was obtained.

The robbers escaped in the direction of Yau-mat.

Yesterday, in the Summary Jurisdiction Court, one Chinaman sued another for $10 for medical attendance. The debt was disputed on the ground that a cure had not been effected, but it appeared that plaintiff had already received $2.50. The Chief Justice, after hearing the evidence, dismissed the claim and said he thought the plaintiff had received, as it was, more than he deserved; he thought it a great pity some restraint was not placed on doctors. The plaintiff had stated that he was formerly "a slaver of foreigners' beads," and his Lordship said this carried us back to our own barbarous times, when the professions of doctor and barber were combined. —Hong Kong Daily Press, May 5, 1930.

At the North London police-court last month, a Japanese merchant pleaded "Guilty" to having been drunk and disorderly at Highgate-hill, and was fined 10s. Constable Costin said Miwa was outside the Tube station shouting in Japanese and waving an umbrella. When witness took him into custody defendant, though much smaller, held him by a judo leg-grip. For 10 minutes they were locked together, the constable being powerless to move. It was not until the witness adopted an English method that the defendant was held on the ground until the ambulance arrived.

As a lieutenant of H.M.S. Goliath, on the China Station, he served through the Boxer Rebellion in 1900, and recovered the China Medal. Later he specialised as a gunnery officer and returned to the China Station in that capacity during the Russo-Japanese War. The Great War found him on the East Coast of Africa, and he was present at the capture of Bagamoyo and other coast towns. Later, he commanded monitors on the Belgian Coast, and was present at the Zeebrugge and Ostend operations in April, 1918.

Looking Back 25 Years. The Fourchou Echo gives some verses that pour cold water on griffinesque gush. Here are four:—
The fairy orchids of the East assuage the Exile's grief,
—Or that at least presumably is the Fleet Street scribe's belief!
But, even if we had them, all the orchids 'neath the sun
Could't do much to console us—now our cauliflowers are done!

The glorious Golden Oriole, that flashes through the trees,
Provides a Fleet Street pen, no doubt, with lovely similes;
But, though we may admire them, our enthusiasm's short,
When that over-rated screecher wakes us punctually at dawn!

The same perverted scribbler writes of Nabobs of the East,
And doesn't realize exchange can matter in the least;
He little knows the wicked words, we wish to, but don't say,
When the longed-for Shanghai steamer brings no-news of increased pay!

The luxury and langour, the mystery and charm,
The lusciousness and gorgeousness, the spices and the balm,
—Make excellent ingredients for a literary treat

For those in fact who've never known the prick of Prickly Heat! —Hong Kong Daily Press, May 6, 1930.

Looking Back 50 Years. Yesterday, in the Summary Jurisdiction Court, one Chinaman sued another for $10 for medical attendance. The debt was disputed on the ground that a cure had not been effected, but it appeared that plaintiff had already received $2.50. The Chief Justice, after hearing the evidence, dismissed the claim and said he thought the plaintiff had received, as it was, more than he deserved; he thought it a great pity some restraint was not placed on doctors. The plaintiff had stated that he was formerly "a slaver of foreigners' beads," and his Lordship said this carried us back to our own barbarous times, when the professions of doctor and barber were combined. —Hong Kong Daily Press, May 5, 1930.

AMERICAN TARIFF BILL.

TWO AMENDMENTS REJECTED.

REPRESENTATIVES SUPPORT PRESIDENT.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

WASHINGTON, May 3.

The Canadian tariff changes have evoked much comment in Congress circles. The Republicans construe Canada's action to be a threat to influence Congress in handling the Tariff Bill now being discussed, while Democrats contend that the high American tariffs inevitably led to retaliatory measures by foreign nations and has affected the country's foreign trade. Senator Crisp, a member of the Ways and Means Committee of the Representatives, declares that when the new American tariff is enacted other nations will retaliate.

Tariff Bill Amendment Rejected.

WASHINGTON, May 4.

The House of Representatives has rejected the Debiture Amendment which the Senate had incorporated in the Tariff Bill, despite Mr. Hoover's opposition, providing the issue of export debentures on farm products by which the American farmer would be paid on all he sends abroad a sum equal to half the import duty which would be chargeable against similar produce seeking entry from foreign countries.

WASHINGTON, May 4.

London, May 2.

Mr. W. C. Bridgeman, who was First Lord of the Admiralty in the last Conservative Government, in a speech at Weymouth to-day said he very much regretted the London Naval Agreement because it did very little in the direction of economy, gave away the most important part of our Fleet and gave us practically nothing in return.

"If we are going to make this enormous surrender against the advice of all the best Naval experts in the country, and if it is necessary in the interests of economy, then surely they might have got something out of some other countries equivalent to the surrender we are making," he declared amid loud cheers.

Washington, May 2.

The White House has announced that the laying down of three 10,000-ton eight inch gun cruisers, whose construction President Hoover postponed at the beginning of the recent Naval negotiations, will be further delayed.

The postponement is said to have no connexion with the result of the London Conference but is due to contemplated changes in the design of the vessels as a result of the trials of the first ships of this type which have just been commissioned.

Improvement in the design of the hull is said to be one of the principal alterations contemplated. These three cruisers are included in the first five to be built under the latest Naval programme. The remaining two vessels will be constructed presently.

This is especially true of small units amounting in time to a vast aggregate, he declared.

Mr. Klein cited the enormous case in point. He also pointed out the increase in trade with the Orient last year, and showed that there has been a greater gain in American trade with the Orient since the war than has been the case with better-advertised Latin America.

MURDERED MISSIONARY.

HIS LAST LETTER TO ENGLAND.

[UNITED PRESS.]

The London Missionary Society

has received a letter from Mr. Eric Yorke Scarlett, of Heaton Mersey, and Manchester, who was murdered by bandits, near Pei-tai-ho, recently. Reporting to his society on his year's work Mr. Scarlett wrote:

"Superficially a year of stability and unification, 1929 has, in reality, been one of constant and bitter turmoil. Each revolt in its turn has been quelled, which at first might seem to be a sign of the essential soundness and stability of the Government's position, but which is really nothing of the kind. The wholesale purchase of rebel war-lords by means of misappropriated public funds and their consequent withdrawal from the stage, bearing with them the admirable moral slogan, which formed their principal armoury, is but the more clearly to show forth that the venality and selfishness which is and has been all along the chief curse of China is by no means dead."

"Banditry is worse to-day than for many years, and large bands of ruffians roam at will in many parts. The Kansu conditions are known and freely talked about, but other appalling casualties are hidden and apparently recked little of. Anyone who possesses more than the bare necessities of life lives in constant terror of robbery, official, or unofficial kidnapping. The well-to-do, even in the concession, surround their houses with barbed wire, and five or six strands high, and often electrically charged, on top of the already almost unscalable outer wall."

"THE CLUTCHING HAND."

NEW YORK GANGSTERS "CELEBRATE" BURIAL.

[UNITED PRESS.]

His body encased in a casket valued at $2,500, Giuseppe Perano, the famous New York gangster, who was known as "The Clutching Hand" because of his withered right hand, was buried with great pomp and ceremony recently.

Perano was ambushed and shot by three gangsters as he was approaching his headquarters in Brooklyn. Dressed in the height of fashion, he was discovered some time later by police with several bullets in his heart.

Ten motor-cars loaded with flowers and dozens of other cars containing his gangster friends followed the hearse to the cemetery. Dense crowds lined the route to watch the passing of the mortal remains of Perano, who was one of Brooklyn's wealthiest "beer barons."

Conservative estimates place the total cost of the funeral at between $20,000 and $24,000, and there was unanimous consent that Perano's friends had done well by him.

While the body was being carried to the graveyard, gangsters in another section of the city took advantage of the occasion to shoot and kill Theodore Pandola, a suspected member of a beer-running band.

Police are searching for his murderers, but there is little doubt that they will go free and that yet another gangland crime will go unpunished.

German Legation in Peking a letter was received by the Chinese Government from a rebellious Mongolian tribe. Nobody in Peking could be found able to decipher it until it was handed to Herr Krebs, who at once translated it.

STORMS IN WAKE OF RED TERROR.

HAILSTONES "AS BIG AS PIGEON EGGS."

DUAL DEVASTATION IN NORTHERN KWANGTUEN.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

Following the devastation wrought by the Chu-Mo Reds, the districts of Namhung, Yanfa and Chihing, in Northern Kwangtung, are now suffering severely from exceedingly bad weather. Heavy rainstorms, floods and hailstones have added to the privations of survivors of the Red Terror.

Namhung is reported by the Chinese Press to be the worst of the affected districts. During the past two weeks, the weather has been very erratic. On the afternoon of Thursday last, a heavy rainstorm broke out and the city was plunged in darkness. Lamps were lit in every house and shop as if it were night-time. The downpour continued for hours, in consequence of which the streets were converted into miniature rivers, the water being several feet deep. Many buildings were inundated and the singular sight was witnessed of small sampans sailing along the streets!

The flood subsided the next morning, but a hailstorm followed in its wake. Some of the hailstones were said to be as big as pigeon eggs. Fortunately, the hailstorm was short-lived. According to the natives, this was the fifth hailstorm in the district within the past two months—a record unsurpassed for a century. Rainstorms of a minor nature still occur now and then.

A number of deaths among men and cattle was reported, in addition to heavy damage to crops and buildings.

LOCAL RACING ROMANCE.

MR. "GUSSY" ROZA WEDS MISS ALVES.

[UNITED PRESS.]

A wedding of great social interest to the Portuguese community was solemnized at the Roman Catholic Cathedral yesterday afternoon, when Miss Cecilia Maria de Salazar Alves was married to Mr. Gustavo Uriel da Rosa.

The bridegroom is well-known in local racing circles, being one of the most successful jockeys in Hong Kong at the moment. The bride is the daughter of the official time-keeper of the H.K. Jockey Club. As was to be expected, a large number of owners and jockeys were present at the wedding ceremony and at the reception subsequently given at the Club Lusitano.

The interior of the church was very prettily decorated for the occasion, flowers, pennants and bunting forming a very attractive background for the riot of gay colour provided by the dresses of the ladies who attended the ceremony.

The bride made a very charming picture in a dress of ivory satin. She was attended by her two cousins, Miss Marie Alves and Mercedes Alves, who wore dresses of peach-coloured georgette. The bride carried a bouquet of arum lilies and asparagus fern, while the bridesmaids carried

LAWN BOWLS LEAGUE.

KOWLOON DOCK AND TAIKOO BEATEN.

VICTIMS OF THE TWO VALLEY CLUBS.

"DOUBLE" FOR K.C.C.

Intermittent showers interfered with the opening day of the lawn bowls League season on Saturday. The matches were completed with the exception of the junior game between Taikoo and the Yacht Club, which had to be abandoned after two heads.

Craigengower and Civil Service accounted for the two Docks by small margins. Kowloon C.C. started with a victory over the Bowling Green Club. The Police started none too well with a weaker team than last year and were overwhelmed on two rinks by the Club de Recreio.

In the junior section Kowloon C.C. secured a victory at Craigengower, thanks to a majority of 20 shots on Skip Blackburn's rink. This rink put in all their eight woods to count in the thirteenth head, a feat which is rarely accomplished. The Bowling Green Club won all round against the Electricians, while the Club de Recreio were beaten by the Civil Service.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

SEVEREST SELLING WAVE SEEN THIS YEAR.

SHARES OFFERED FOR SACRIFICE PRICES.

[UNITED PRESS.]

New York, April 29.—The New York stock market was subjected to-day to the severest selling wave of 1930, says the daily stock exchange review of the Dow Jones Financial News Agency.

Values melted and leading industrial, rail, utilities and specialties were hard hit. Thousands of shares were thrown upon the market for whatever they would bring.

Poor Earnings the Cause.

This decline was primarily caused, in the view of experts, by the poor earnings reports for the first quarter. As a result, all the Dow Jones averages showed major declines. Sales for the day amounted to 4,822,190 shares. Call money, which has been at 3½ per cent., was quoted at 4 per cent.

The showing for the rails was especially bad, as the first 46 railroads reported a decline in earnings of 39.5 per cent. for March as compared with March of last year. The Dow Jones average for 30 rails to-day showed a decline of 2.71, to 146.72.

Among the leaders, Pennsylvania was off 1½ to 70½ for to-day's close as compared with that of Saturday; New York Central, closed at 175, off 4½; Erie closed off a point to 53; Union Pacific was down 7½ to 221½; Canadian Pacific was off two points to 203; Missouri Pacific closed at 88; Baltimore & Ohio was off 1½ and 113½ and Southern Pacific was off 1½ to 122½.

Oil Subjected to Selling.

Oils were strong early in the session but then were subjected to selling. Standard Oil of New York closed off a quarter to 39½; Standard of New Jersey was off 1½ to 29½; Continental Oil was off ½ to 29½; and Phillips Petroleum registered one of the rare gains of the day by closing at 41½, up ½.

The Dow Jones average for 30 industrials reflected the trend severely, being off 8.53 to 276.04. U.S. Steel was down three points to 185; Bethlehem was off 1½ to 99½; and Ludlum was off 3½ to 40½. Westinghouse dropped 9½ to a close of 184. General Electric was off a point to 46; and Chrysler was off a point to 36.

The Dow Jones average for 20 utilities was off 3.20 to 103.95. Electric Bond & Share was off 1½ to 112½; American Tel. & Tel. was off 4½ to 82½ and International Tel. & Tel. was off 1½ to 72½. Radio Corporation declined 4½ to 64. Consolidated Gas was off 5½ to 130; Columbia Gas was down 2½ to 81½; Public Service of New Jersey dropped 6½ to 115; and Standard Gas & Electric was off 4½ to 120½.

Motors and Utilities Decline.

Among the motors, General Motors declined 1½ to 47½; Packard was on a point to 18½; Hudson was off a point to 46; and Chrysler was off a point to 36. The Dow Jones average for 20 utilities was off 3.20 to 103.95. Electric Bond & Share was off 1½ to 112½; American Tel. & Tel. was off 4½ to 82½ and International Tel. & Tel. was off 1½ to 72½. Radio Corporation declined 4½ to 64. Consolidated Gas was off 5½ to 130; Columbia Gas was down 2½ to 81½; Public Service of New Jersey dropped 6½ to 115; and Standard Gas & Electric was off 4½ to 120½.

JAPAN'S COTTON INDUSTRY.

TROUBLES IN PROSPECT.

The view that Japan is going to pass through the same troubles as the Lancashire spinning section of the Lancashire cotton trade was expressed by Mr. William Howarth, president of the Bolton Master Spinners' Association, when he was elected to that position at the annual meeting in Manchester on April 8.

Japan, said Mr. Howarth, had adopted the gold standard under some pressure. He was quite sure Japan in the next two or three years would pass through a phase no less disastrous than the American section in Lancashire had passed through. "I am prophesying," he added, "and it is dangerous to prophesy, but I know that the world influences which so dislocated the American section of our trade will affect Japan equally forcibly." Drapers told him that sometimes foreign goods were sold in this country because of colour which appealed to the imagination of the customers. He thought possibly we had been a little too staid in our trade methods and had allowed trade to be fished away from us by these factors. Art and the attraction which a beautiful article had for the female mind were points they ought to study.

HONG KONG TRADE.

SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT
IN TEXTILES.

The fortnightly circular of the Hong Kong General Chamber of Commerce contains the following references to the textile trade:—

Cotton Piece Goods and Fancy
Cotton Goods.

The following reports have been received:—

There is enquiry for White Shirtings but dealers are not yet prepared to pay current values required by importers. In Fancy Cotton Piece Goods fair sales have been made of standard Venetians and requirements for other dyed goods have also received attention from dealers. Clearances of seasonal cargo show slight improvement and it is to be hoped that better off-take in this direction will be maintained. There is no evidence as yet of any serious enquiry for Styles usually bought for November/December shipment. Latest cotton quotations to hand are those of 1st instant. Mid. Am. "Spot" 8.78d. Eg. Sakel 14.40d.

Another report states:—

Buying of Spring Fancies for December/January shipment is still delayed and there is very little enquiry for cotton goods of any descriptions. Some sales of old lots of "Spot" cargo are reported in the local market, but the prices obtained are very low. Manchester prices are inclined to be firmer, but there is little to support them for the China market. There has been a slight improvement in clearances, with the off-take spread over a variety of cargo.

Woolens.

Apart from a small trade in miscellaneous lines, the market has been very quiet. What business has been done is accounted for by dealers settling small orders for July/August shipment before it is too late, rather than as the result of renewed demand. Wool prices in Bradford are distinctly firmer and the lowest point seems to have been reached.

Cotton Yarn.

Nothing doing.

Nominal quotations are as follows:—No. 10s. $170/190, No. 16s. $195/200, No. 12s. $180/190, and No. 20s. $200/210.

CHINA AND GOLD.

BRITISH PRESS COMMENT.

According to the writer in the London Evening Standard the recently published recommendation of the Kemmerger Commission suggesting a gradual transfer from silver to gold as the exchange currency of China is bound to meet with a mixed reception. He says that countries which are avid of gold will not welcome another competitor, and many, he supposes, will object that, in view of the threatened world shortage of gold, the present is not an opportune moment to effect the change. When India first proposed to go over to the gold standard similar objections were raised, but the transition did not have any seriously disturbing effects.

The writer can see nothing but advantage accruing to China and the rest of the world from the proposed change. China at present is the only country of any moment still adhering to a silver currency. Persia and French Indo-China have recently deserted the white for the yellow metal. Consequently, the whole world is a free seller of silver and there is only one potential, and unwilling, buyer. In these circumstances the price of silver must fluctuate sharply, and trade with China is difficult to the verge of impossibility.

Sir Charles Addis on Gold and Prices.

Sir Charles Addis, in a very informative address to the Institute of Bankers, on April 3, on the Bank for International Settlements, touched upon the relationship between gold and prices.

"The appreciation of gold or, what was the same thing, the downward trend of prices had," he said, "become a serious menace, and if allowed to go on unhindered must inevitably check enterprise and retard economic recovery. It was not the low level but the persistent fall that was crippling industry and taking the heart out of the business pioneer. During the last five years prices had fallen by 25 per cent., and there was as yet little sign of a check to the fall."

While admitting that several agencies had been at work, Sir Charles conveyed the impression

HELENA BEAT CHINESE IN FRIENDLY BATTLE.

In a lively 7-inning game at the South China Field, Caroline Hill, the U.S.S. Helena baseball team beat the Chinese outfit 9-5.

In the first innings the sailors gathered 5 runs and collected another 3 in the third. Leong slammed a homer in the second stanza for the Chinese boys, while Eckerle slugged the pill out to left field for a circuit run in the third frame, scoring two ahead of him.

The teams lined-up as under:—

A NEW RECORD?

Messrs. Pentreath & Company inform us that they have received the following cable from Messrs. Hornby Hemelryk & Company of Liverpool:—"Copper, tin, cheapest 17 years under cost production-mine closing because unprofitable work at these prices."

that the monetary factor was perhaps the most important cause of the persistent fall in prices. He asserted that the monetary factor, even if not always dominant, was always present to affect prices, and for good or ill had to be dealt with.

The address, observes the writer of City Notes, in the Times, left the impression upon his hearers that Sir Charles hopes that central banking co-operation on the scale contemplated in the formation of the Bank for International Settlements should consciously attempt to adjust the supply of monetary gold to the demand in such a way as to maintain the commodity value of gold. Sir Charles made it clear that he believes that the world is suffering from powerful doses of deflation and that a moderate dose of temporary inflation will not do any harm.

MORE FOOD
SPACEMORE
for your dollar—
in a Kelvinator

Let's get down to facts about this question of Kelvinator
prices.

You know that when you buy a Kelvinator you get something better. But do you know that you get it for less money, and get something bigger as well?

Dollar for dollar, Kelvinator
gives you greater food capacity—more ice cube capacity
—more downright quality

and beauty combined, than any other system you can buy.
Model for model you will find Kelvinator prices actually below others.

This being the case—and it is —why be satisfied with any other system but Kelvinator?
It costs less at the start; much less in the long run, and there's an attractive household budget purchase plan for those who desire to use it.
